

QUITS POLICE JOB TO RETAIN HIS MANHOOD

Fritchman Declares Honest Member of Force
Has No Chance.

TRIED IT THREE YEARS.

Ideal Young Man Physically, with Clean Record Gives Up in Disgust.

"A man who tries to do his duty as he sees it has absolutely no chance under present conditions in the Police Department. He must either sacrifice his manhood or his job. I prefer to lose the job. That's why I am getting out now."

Patrolman Harry W. Fritchman made this statement to-day to a reporter for The Evening World when he came to headquarters to resign his place and surrender his shield. He has been on the force three years, and his record is clean. There are no charges of any sort against him. The official register shows that he is nearly thirty-one years old, married, and living at No. 24 Jane street with his father, a wealthy contractor.

In the whole department there is probably no man of better physique than Fritchman. He is a handsome, well-built young man, with an open face and pleasing manner. It is only natural that he should use good language, since he is an honor graduate of Fordham College.

As Fritchman explains it he got on the police force almost by accident. Three years ago he was a traveling auditor for an insurance company. One of his office associates took the examination for a policeman's place and failed. Fritchman, seeing the other man, who promptly beat him, so that he could not pass the examinations either.

Won Wager, Got Appointment.
More as a joke than anything else Fritchman made the application. He passed the physical examination with a percentage of 97 and the mental with a percentage of 81. A few days after he had collected the amount of the wager he received notification that he had been appointed a probationer, with instructions to report for duty.

Fritchman's father was abundantly able to aid the son in his smaller income as a policeman should not be enough to support him, and he decided to try the force for awhile. He got an extended leave of absence from the insurance company, and in ten days he was wearing a new blue uniform.

If they told the probationers everything they are expected to know and to do, many of them would quit. Fritchman, however, was a man who never gave more than a peep at the undercurrents that all the department. If they were to tell him the darker side of it at the beginning he would quit then and there. So he waited until the beginning of his second week, when he was in good with the regular patrolman—until he is a fixture to speak before they introduce him to the hidden side of a police man's life.

Used on Secret Service.
"I must have made a good impression, because I had only been a regular patrolman ten days when I was ordered to Headquarters to act as confidential man to Commissioner Greene. I was detailed to plain duty and sent out to work up evidence against the big gamblers who were then operating here. I had to go to Philadelphia three times. I succeeded in getting in good with the gamblers, and when I came back I was vouched for by the Philadelphia police as being all right."

Big Raids Suppressed.
"I stopped at the Waldorf, spent money freely and changed my clothes several times a day. I was promptly taken for a man with plenty of time and money. As a result of my knowledge I got the spectacular raid on that city's gambling house, the biggest at that time in the country."

"And now here's some unwritten history. The same week we raided Daly's, we also raided three other gambling establishments almost as large. Not a word of this got in the papers and there was no public record of the raids. Through the direct influence of a certain judge who has once died the grand jury did not indict the men who operated the three big games in question. After Greene left, I was attached to the District Attorney's staff in a similar capacity for a while. Then I returned to Mather's street as a missioner. McAdams, a confidential man, then I fell into disfavor with certain of the patrolmen and when McAdams went out I was immediately transferred to the West Sixty-eighth street station and put on patrol duty. I have been humiliated ever since. Higher officials, with whom I had become unpopular while at Headquarters, and about to make me lead a dog's life and they succeeded. Any man who finds himself in such a position can be made to suffer in a hundred different ways, no matter how hard he tries to do his duty. I couldn't retain my manhood and stay any longer.

Unwritten Laws Govern.

An conditions stand to-day no man knows what he has to do what he has not to do. The rule of the department is not to count. It's the unwritten laws of the force that govern a man and decide his future.

"By the way, there's a new wrinkle among the roundmen. They are supposed to start on a round at midnight; consequently the men on post are alert and watching for them. So the roundmen just take a four-hour nap at the station-house and then, refreshed by his sleep, he skips out at 4 A. M. when the patrolmen are likely to be tired and sleepy. He will go after one man (one after time until he catches him resting or loafing, and then he will have a charge to prefer against the victim."

"There's one thing more I want to tell you, and that is a whole lot of this talk you hear about graft in the department is just near as much as there was when I joined the force three years ago. The men are doing better. They are afraid to graft on a large scale for fear of being caught. There have been too many exposures. In three years more I believe that at the present rate grafting will have been reduced to a minimum."

Fritchman is going to take a partnership in a brokerage business. Police Commissioner Bingham refused to discuss Fritchman's resignation and his charges.

"This man declares that a policeman who is honest and does his duty can't stay on the force," explained the reporter.

"That's a lie," said Gen. Bingham. "It's time the man got out. That is to say, he amended. I hope he benefits himself by the change."

In to-day's list of transfers appears the name of Sergeant William J. McCarthy, fourth second time in ten days. He was with "Big Bill" Hodgkins in Thirtieth street until the Henderson shake-up. Now he goes to Macdougall street, where he has been for a week to Bronx Park.

DRUGGED GIRL FOUND IN WOODS CONCEALS SECRET

Mamie McNally Will Not Prosecute Man Who Gave Her Drink.

IS ONLY 16 YEARS OLD.

She and Two Companions, All of Paterson, Went Driving with Frank Lesson.

The case of Mamie McNally, the young girl who was found in the woods near Paterson, N. J., in many respects like the drugging and killing of Jennie Boaschlester. The Paterson girl who was murdered four years ago. The difference is that Mamie McNally is alive. She, however, refuses to tell who drugged her.

Poor Jennie Boaschlester was enticed to a lonely wood and, after being brutally assaulted by four men, all scores of wealthy and prominent Paterson families, left there to die. When her body was recovered it was horribly mutilated and disfigured. The victim's four assailants, McAllister, Campbell, Death and Carr, are now serving a twenty-year sentence in the State prison at Trenton.

There are many strange and mysterious circumstances connected with the case of Mamie McNally. The girl, who is not much more than sixteen years old, has always borne an excellent reputation in the neighborhood in which she has lived. In spite of this fact her mother refuses to tell where the girl is living at present. She also says that she has no charges to make against any one.

Met Two Girl Friends.
On the afternoon of Monday last Mamie McNally, accompanied by her friend, Mamie Conley, of No. 61 Market street, Paterson, went to the home of Kitty Dunham, at No. 123 Columbia avenue, Paterson. The three girls then started out for a walk. They had not gone many yards from the Dunham home before they met Frank Lesson, who runs a small embroidery plant at Garfield, a suburb of Passaic, and who lives at Passaic and Palisade avenues, Passaic.

According to the story of the girls, Lesson invited them to take a ride. The three girls got into his one seated buggy and drove toward Millside Park. Here, Kitty Dunham says, they all entered a hotel, where they each drank four glasses of whiskey.

When Mamie Conley, who lives with her mother and sister, was seen by a reporter for The Evening World today she was reticent.

"Yes, I was drunk," declared the girl. "We were all drunk. But we were not forced to drink. The only thing about it is, Mamie McNally could not stand the drink. I don't believe she was assaulted."

How to Fool a Lazy Liver with Artificial Exercise

EVERY serious Sickness has a small beginning. And, in nine cases out of ten, that beginning is made in the Bowels.

Constipation is the beginning of most diseases. It paves the way for all others. Lack of exercise, hasty eating, improper food, are its first causes.

Laziness, and postponement, permit it to grow into Chronic Constipation, which means life-long discomfort.

It isn't necessary to be sick-a-bed, you know, in order to be mightily uncomfortable. Even a slight indigestion affects the nerves, dulls the mind, and obscures the merry sunshine of life.

The time to adjust the Bowels is the very minute you suspect they need adjustment. —If your tongue is slightly coated, —If your breath is under suspicion, —If your head feels a trifle heavy or dull, —If digestion seems even a little slow, —If Heartburn, Belching, Colic or Restlessness begin to show themselves, —That's the time to eat a Cascarets.

It acts as pleasantly as it tastes. It is as congenial to your Bowels as it is to your Palate. It stimulates the muscular lining of the Bowels and intestines, so that they mechanically extract nourishment from the food and drive out the waste.

The only way to have Cascarets ready to use precisely when you need them is to carry them constantly in your pocket, as you do a Watch or a Lead pencil. The ten cent box of Cascarets is made thin, flat, round-edged, and small, for this precise purpose.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "COC." All druggists.
